Did you know?

Both mezcal and tequila are made from agave, so what's the difference between them?

TEQUILA

is made by distilling the fermentation of 100% Blue Weber Agave plants. Tequila can only be produced in Jalisco - a central state in Mexico. By taking the heart of the agave plant & steaming it, tequila producers shred the heart (known as the piña) extruding a juice called aguamiel. The aguamiel is then mixed with sugar cane and yeast, fermented for several days. Followed by distilling the juice twice in copper pots.

MEZCAL

is made from a variety of maguey plants, unlike tequila using only Blue Weber Agave. The difference in process is the heart of the agave/maguey "piñas" are roasted in earthen-clay ovens or several days which give the mezcal its smokey flavour profile. The roasted maguey are then crushed, fermented with cane sugar, double and triple distilled. After distillation, some are bottled and some mezcals will also be aged in roasted oak barrels.

MEZCAL VARIETALS

Espadín - most common maguey accounts for 90% mezcal production

Tobala - deemed the "king of mezcals" this rare variety of maguey is mostly harvested from the wild

Tobaziche - is often harvested wild and made for a herbaceous savoury mezcal

Tepexstate - harvested wild maguey, take up to 30 years to reach maturity

Arroqueño - harvested wild maguey, floral with bitter chocolate notes
